

Parent Access to Instructional Materials

At Travis Hill NOLA Schools (THN), we are committed to maintaining transparency and building trust with families. We understand that you may want to review the materials your child is using in the classroom. Although the secure nature of our facility may limit certain types of access, we provide the following opportunities for parents and guardians to stay informed about instructional content.

Your rights and access include:

- Curriculum Overviews
 - Parents have the right to request and receive a summary of curriculum being taught in each subject area.
- Review of Materials
 - Upon request, parents may review instructional materials.
 - Requests can be made through the school principal.
- Reasonable Access
 - Review of instructional materials can be scheduled through virtual meetings and on-site review, subject to facility rules and visitation policies.
- Special Education Materials
 - For students with IEPs or 504 Plans, parents may request access to specialized instructional tools or modifications being used to support their child.
- State and Facility Compliance
 - All instructional materials used align with state education standards, and are vetted to ensure they are developmentally appropriate, culturally responsive and safe for use in secure settings.

To request review of instructional materials, submit a written request to scarney@travishillnola.org. We will respond within 5-7 business days and arrange a method of review that complies with facility safety procedures.
